A guide to agencies involved in safeguarding adults and children in Wales

This guide gives an overview of the work of many different agencies involved in safeguarding adults and children in Wales.

We have grouped them in four categories, accessible via the arrows on the right. There you will find a pop-up NISB summary of the role and responsibilities of each agency or group. Where appropriate, we have also included a website link for more information.

This guide is not about what to do if you have a concern about the safeguarding of someone. If they are in direct danger, call the Police immediately on 999. If not, telephone your local Social Services as soon as possible to share your concerns.

Introduction

The NISB is pleased to share with you this interactive guide to agencies involved in safeguarding children and adults in Wales.

As our understanding of safeguarding has broadened and advanced over recent years, agencies with responsibilities have further developed and new organisations and bodies have evolved. This interactive guide has been produced to support a shared understanding of these arrangements as they stand today, recognising that the landscape will change as we continue to make further advances.

This visual map, illustrating the breadth of arrangements, we hope will also support dialogue between and across organisations about how we work together to continue to shape and define Welsh arrangements ensuring that the safeguarding needs of Welsh citizens are met.
